Exceptional Clinical Leadership Award
Megan Littlefield, MD, Chief Medical Officer
RiverStone Health, MT

Dr. Megan Littlefield's commitment to the mission of community health centers can be seen through her work making sure her patients consistently access the care they need. Her support for her team, creative proactive approach to managing patient populations, and mentorship of other health center leaders embodies the mission of community health.

As Chief Medical Officer of RiverStone Health, Dr. Littlefield has championed patient access to care through team-based care. Her commitment to this access is embodied in her successful implementation of organizational processes, her ability to listen to and utilize staff input, and support for her staff. Her team knows that leadership is committed to supporting their work – and through that work, their patients.

Dr. Littlefield has led regional trainings to share RiverStone's innovative work to model, identify, and proactively reach out to the clinic's most vulnerable patients and support them with team-based, integrated care. During the pandemic, Dr. Littlefield balanced responding to the challenge of screening, diagnosing, and treating patients with COVID-19 with the clinic's preventative care and chronic disease management efforts. She also supported staff member wellness to keep her team balanced and focused.

Dr. Littlefield is always ready to support her peers at health centers across the state and region. She's taken new Medical Directors under her wing and actively shares her knowledge and resources to support them. Her colleagues appreciate her optimism and vision as Dr. Littlefield understands and shares the role health centers play in improving the health of their patients, communities, and the nation.

We are pleased to present Dr. Megan Littlefield with the CHAMPS Exceptional Clinical Leadership Award in recognition of her commitment to excellence and providing quality medical care to all.
