NATIONAL TRAINING PARTNERS GUIDE

Education, Training, and Technical Assistance
Tailored for Community Health Centers and
Primary Care Association and Health Center
Controlled Network Collaborations

Purpose

As HRSA transitions to the new National Technical Assistance Program (NTAP), the National Training Partners Guide is intended to help ensure that the field remains connected to experienced TA providers. The Guide serves as a centralized resource for PCAs, HCCNs, and health centers to identify, access, and engage with former HRSA-funded national TA organizations that continue to offer expertise, tools, and services. By compiling key organizational information and offerings, the Guide supports collaboration, promotes awareness of available TA options, and ensures that the knowledge and partnerships built over the past decade remain accessible to advance high-quality care and strengthen health center operations.

This resource was developed by the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC), in coordination with these National Training Partner organizations. Production of this Guide was not supported, in whole or in part, by any federal funds.

Capital Link offers a strong collaboration resource for PCAs and HCCNs seeking to connect health centers with practical, implementation-focused support. By combining our staff's health center expertise, advisory services, financing knowledge, operational support, and data-informed tools, Capital Link helps organizations move from planning to action. We offer fee-for-service solutions, including strategic consultations, capital planning, financing support, market assessments, patient demand analysis, facilities planning, mobile health consulting, scenario modeling, customized playbooks, Performance Evaluation Profiles, Value and Impact Analyses, and Scenario Planning Snapshots.

Capital Link equips leaders to assess opportunities, strengthen operations, and plan for growth. This includes advising on revenue cycle management optimization and value-based care readiness, helping health centers improve financial performance, align operations with evolving payment models, and position for long-term sustainability. Capital Link supports leaders in securing resources, and communicating impact on boards, funders, lenders, and partners.

Capital Link supports partners in identifying and pursuing relevant grant opportunities and in collaborating on grant-funded work. Drawing on its subject matter expertise, data capabilities, and implementation experience, Capital Link can help shape project concepts, inform proposal development, and contribute to the design and execution of grant deliverables that are practical, responsive to funder priorities, and valuable to health centers.

Capital Link's value lies in helping health centers navigate uncertainty, make informed decisions, improve performance, expand access, and support long-term sustainability in the communities they serve.

Corporation for Supportive Housing (CSH)

CSH (Corporation for Supportive Housing) advances affordable and accessible housing aligned with services by advocating for effective policies and funding, investing in communities, and strengthening the supportive housing field. Since our founding in 1991, CSH has been the only national nonprofit intermediary focused solely on increasing the availability of supportive housing. Over the course of our work, we have created more than 512,500 units of affordable and supportive housing and invested more than $2.2 billion in communities. Our workforce is central to accomplishing this work. We employ approximately 170 people across 30 states and U.S. Territories. As an intermediary, we do not directly develop or operate housing but center our approach on collaboration with a wide range of people, partners, and sectors.

Education, Training, and Technical Assistance Offerings

JSI's U.S.-based Health Services Division provides the following services to nonprofit organizations, state and local health departments, and federal partners in the areas of primary care (including HRSA-supported health centers, PCAs and HCCNs, infectious disease (including Ryan White HIV/AIDS Program recipients), maternal child health, and reproductive health (including Title X recipients):

- Virtual and in-person trainings and conferences
- Large group, small group, and individualized technical assistance
- Staff development and organizational capacity building
- Evaluation design, data collection, and analysis
- Program development and implementation assistance
- Identification and dissemination of best practices
- Workflow mapping and process improvement
- Strategic planning support
- Needs assessment

JSI has long supported health centers, primary care associations, and health center controlled networks with specific expertise in:

Health Information Technology, Interoperability, and Data Management

JSI's in-house experts understand the resource and regulatory environments health centers operate within, and provide tailor-made guidance for IT staff, clinical teams, leadership, operations, and quality improvement staff to implement realistic HIT and data solutions. For example, JSI has led the Health Information Technology, Evaluation, and Quality (HITEQ) Center as a National Technical Assistance Partner (NTAP) for 11 years to support health center HIT optimization and data management best practices.

Clinical Quality Measures and the Uniform Data System (UDS)

Our team leverages a deep understanding of the UDS requirements and trends to support health centers in accurately reporting impact and using data to drive improvement. JSI is proud to serve as the national training and technical assistance partner for the UDS, supporting HRSA's Bureau of Primary Health Care (BPHC) in the standardized collection, validation, and analysis of the UDS for more than 1,400 health centers. JSI provides large-scale virtual trainings, in-depth state-specific training, and the Reporting Assistance and Process Improvement Discussions (RAPID) communities of practice.

Health Center Workforce

We are prepared to help health centers understand what motivates their staff and how to implement organizational strategies to become a top workplace. JSI led the first-ever BPHC National Health Center Workforce Well-being Survey, garnering over 52,000 individual responses from more than half of all health centers. Through developing the survey, analyzing the data, and providing technical assistance to health centers based on the survey findings, our team has developed an in-depth understanding of the specific drivers of well-being among health center staff and the impact those drivers have on job satisfaction, burnout, engagement, and retention.

Quality Improvement and Population Health

With this unique constellation of experience, plus backgrounds in process improvement (such as Lean Six Sigma), epidemiology, health behavior models, and organizational change management, JSI can help health centers improve health outcomes of patients and community members while pursuing financial sustainability through value-based care. Projects such as the Population Health Management Initiative demonstrate our commitment to supporting scalable innovations and realistic efficiencies to deliver the highest quality of care at health centers.

Healthcare and legal organizations can be powerful allies in the pursuit of health equity and justice. We bridge the divide and demonstrate what works by:

- Redefining Policy and Practice Across Sectors: Advancing policies, aligning professional training and practices that improve health and well-being, and providing technical assistance to support systems transformation.
- Convening the Field: Fostering the development and sharing of best practices among practitioners and policymakers across sectors through national and regional meetings and learning networks.
- Building the Evidence Base: Establishing and implementing clearly defined metrics that enable organizations using the Medical-Legal Partnership (MLP) model to measure their impact, set goals for performance improvement, and demonstrate outcomes.
- Catalyzing Investment: Developing public and private sector financing strategies to foster the growth and sustainability of the MLP model of care.

School-Based Health Alliance

Since 1995, the School-Based Health Alliance (SBHA) has worked to expand access to health care for children and adolescents through school-based health care. We are a national nonprofit organization that advances and supports the school-based health care field, including more than 4,000 school-based health centers and a network of state affiliates. Through training, technical assistance, consulting, policy advocacy, data collection, innovation, and partnership development, SBHA helps communities plan, implement, sustain, evaluate, and improve high-quality school-based health care. Our vision is that all children and adolescents are healthy and achieving their fullest potential.
